Scholars have different views on what constitute the ultimate purpose of human action.

(1) Hedonism (Pleasure is the ultimate purpose of human action)

(2) Stoicism (Cultivation of mind or control over knowledge is the ultimate purpose)

(3) Materialism (Material gain is the ultimate purpose of human action)

(4) Humanism (Achieving prosperity for human race is the ultimate purpose)

(5) Humanitarianism (Service to mankind is the ultimate purpose)

(6) Utilitarianism (Achieving greatest food for greatest number is the ultimate purpose)

(7) Kant's Moral Rationalism (Being Duty bound is the ultimate purpose of human action)

(8) Intuitionism (Ethical decision making based on intuition, Non-universal)

(9) Relativism (Ethics is culture specific. Non-universal)

(10) Scholasticism

(11) Perfectionism (Certain human excellences (or perfections), and states of affairs are assessed in terms of their maximization of these excellences. An act is moral if tends to achieve these excellences)

(12) Theory of Justice (Fairness)

(13) Moral good and moral evil-
